

Pick up pre-prepared foods and focus your efforts on a pretty presentation.

Party Planning Tips

- Instead of slaving for hours in the kitchen, opt for festive finger foods that are easy for guests to munch on throughout the night.
- When estimating food and drinks, always round UP. More options mean smaller individual portions.
- Soft cheeses, cut up fruits, deli meats and dips should not sit at room temperature for more than 2 hours.
- Pretend that the party starts at least 30 minutes before it actually does so that everything is ready a little early. Then, take a few minutes to relax.
- If serving hors d'oeuvres before dinner, plan 2-4 per person.
- If you are serving children or a more mature group, be careful of dishes that are too heavy in spices.
- Add instant flair to your buffet table by elevating the heights of serving dishes, perhaps on tiered serving plates and chafing dishes. Cover small boxes or inverted baking pans with pretty fabric for an inexpensive and attractive display.
